HITCHCOCK'S BOLT
CREATES LIVELY STIR

Washington, July 3.—Excitement was at its height when Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, withdrew from the democratic caucus Wednesday because that body voted down his amendment that would put a graduated income tax on a basis of production. Many of his colleagues who had supported him in the vote on his amendment pleaded with him to remain in the room assuring him that he could be granted the privilege of bringing up his amendment without taking so drastic a course. But Senator Hitchcock declared there was no other course open, left the room.

Senator Hitchcock's withdrawal was declared not mean that he had withdrawn from the party or that he would not support the party measure served to determine that there will be a binding resolution passed by the caucus to refrain from introducing any amendment not proposed by the Finance Committee majority and not to support any amendments offered from the Republican side.

It was because he anticipated such a resolution that the Nebraska Senator announced that he could not remain in the caucus because he intended to introduce his income tax amendment in the Senate and to lead a fight for its adoption.

RAILROADS CO-OPERATING WITH THE FARMERS

The Day Line Railroad is going to inaugurate a movement, with the assistance of another concern that will mean much for its line from here to St. Andrews Bay

Jim Hill was probably the first great railroad man who discovered that a railroad only prospered in proportion to the prosperity of the farmers and the business men along the line

When Hill first sent to England for a certain breed of cows, and some place for a certain breed of horses, and began to give them away to good farmers along his line the directors of his road thought he was crazy But he wasn't He was laying the foundation for a prosperous country, which made his railroad prosperous He got the people to settle on the country through which his road was built, and he showed them how to raise good stock, and a few years later that section was shipping fine stock over his road to the markets of the world

The project of the Day Line is something similar It is a co-operative movement The road will in a short time if the plans go through have a man to go to the farmers along the line and make a contract for certain farm products The road will make the contract for either one or three years, and agree to pay a certain price say for Irish potatoes, beans tomatoes cucumbers, squashes sweet potatoes, onions and other things which the soil along the road is specially adapted to

The average farmer who has never raised stock of this kind, will tell you he doesn't do it because he knows nothing of marketing the crop This movement will take that off his hands They will contract to pay a certain price and they will make their own marketing arrangements

You can easily see that it will not be but a year or two before the farmers will be growing stuff of that kind in such abundance that the market will come to them Commission men will be on the ground at shipping time and pay them cash for the stuff on cars

The promoters do not care to enter into the business to speculate on the farmer They merely want to get him interested and to grow such trucks They expect the farmers to grow it when they have a contract for it at a certain price Once they get started, the movement will take care of itself and the farmer will find that he can make it interesting to grow such trucks

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

This is a movement that should be continued If it is carried out it will do more to enrich the people along that line than any other one thing and when you get the people along that line to make money the railroad will make money by having the movement new

DISSOLUTION SALE

Dothan's greatest sale begun June 11th to be continued thirty days. From the beginning interest has never lagged

This has been made possible through confidence—confidence the people have in our store, our methods, the personnel back of all this

A reputation for integrity, for square dealing, once established, is a priceless asset to a business house. Summing it all up, the dry goods business is a matter of confidence. Most any merchant may believe in his own wares, he may gather the best values and styles he knows how to get together, but the people may not place the same confidence in this man's judgment that he places in himself.

You know Ruskin said, "If a man makes a better mouse trap than his neighbor, even though he build his house in a dense forest, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Our aim is to conduct a better store than our "neighbors," to do this we believe it's necessary to clean house, twice a year, and we believe that such sales as we are now conducting the best means of cleaning house.

We believe every frugal housewife should visit our store daily throughout the balance of this sale if possible for her to do so

Nothing charged during this sale to any one
